

AT A GLANCE: ADVANCING EQUITY

America's higher education system is not working for many of today's students. The College Affordability Act (H.R. 4674) will expand opportunities for students from all backgrounds by providing flexible college options and stronger support to help students graduate and move into the workforce.

The College Affordability Act provides low-income students greater financial support by cutting the cost of tuition and covering other basic expenses that can interfere with their education. The bill...

- Creates a new federal-state partnership program to provide tuition-free community college and a path to a tuition-free four-year degree, freeing up students' federal financial aid dollars to cover non-tuition expenses.
- Increases the value of Pell Grants to cover a larger share of tuition and put more money in students' pockets to pay for food, housing, and other basic essentials.
- Gives schools the tools to connect their students with federal safety net programs, including food assistance programs like SNAP and WIC.

The College Affordability Act gives students more flexible college options that offer both an accelerated path to the workforce and the opportunity to get a two- or four-year degree. The bill...

- Allows Pell Grants to be used for quality, short-term programs that can launch graduates into successful careers while also giving them a path to a two- or four-year degree.
- Expands access to dual enrollment for high school students and improves the transferability of short-term credentials and college credits to give students' a broader array of options.
- Increases total Pell eligibility from 12 to 14 semesters and allows students to use unspent Pell dollars toward a graduate degree, empowering students to continue building their skills.

The College Affordability Act gives a new, more diverse generation of students the support they need to graduate and move into the workforce. The bill...

- Invests in programs that advance access to education for students with disabilities, foster youth, students who struggle with homelessness, and student veterans.
- Provides access to affordable on-campus childcare for students with children.
- Blocks Secretary DeVos's survivor-blaming Title IX rule and strengthens prevention and reporting of incidents of campus sexual assault, harassment, and hazing.
- Makes undocumented students and individuals in the country under temporary protected status eligible for federal student aid.
- Supports campus diversity by strengthening civil rights enforcement to prevent discrimination on campus.
- Expands opportunities for justice-involved individuals to get an education and successfully reenter their communities by providing incarcerated students access to Pell Grants.

The College Affordability Act strengthens Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), Tribally Controlled Colleges and Universities (TCUs), and other Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs). The bill...

- Increases and permanently reauthorizes mandatory funding for HBCUs, TCUs, and other MSIs.
- Authorizes new grant programs to support innovation at HBCUs, TCUs, and MSIs, preserve and revitalize Native American Languages, and increase opportunities for graduate and doctoral studies.
